Prestigious Product Spotlight

The Bent Tree

Bethany, MO

Located in Harrison County, The Bent Tree was established in 1982 when a magazine article inspired John Whitt to build rustic furniture from wild willows near his farm. Meanwhile, John's wife, Marcia, was learning the fine craft of basketry which has evolved into many one-of-a-kind art pieces for homes, galleries and collections across the country. The Whitts' daughter, Stacy Leigh, is a gifted leather handbag designer and brings her unique style to the gallery with her bags and jewelry.

The Bent Tree Gallery stands where the farm's working hay and cattle barn once stood and houses John's rustic furniture collection, Marcia's woven vessels and fiber pieces and Stacy's bags and jewelry. Each piece is hand-crafted on a farm just outside the little town of Bethany in northern Missouri.

Conversation with Kehoe

"I continue to be impressed with the incredible products that are made here in our state. It has been a pleasure to travel and meet many of you to learn more about your Missouri-made products.

I encourage each of you to not only promote the Buy Missouri program to other MO manufacturers, but to other MO citizens as well. This program is a great asset to businesses but it is also a great asset to the individuals in our communities. Remember, the more we buy Missouri, the better our state will do!"
